THE ASHTABULA DISASTER.

STORY OF A LADY PASSENGER

Miss M Shepard of Ripon Wis one of the survivors of the Ashtabula disaster gives the following account of her experience to the Chicago Tribune

I left Albany last Thursday night about 2 o'clock and had a berth in the sleeping car Palatine There were twenty passengers on the car, two ladies when we started and two more afterward A very severe snow storm set in at Rochester and we all expected to be snowed in At Ashtabula bridge we were three or four hours behind this was between 8 and 9 in the evening I think we were running faster than we did a few moments previously The people in the car were talking eating or playing cards and the first warning of my impending danger was given up by a candle being knocked down the glass in the lamps being shattered and the bell rope breaking The other lights fell, there was a bump, then a horrible crash

A gentleman near me said, Oh! my God we're going down Then we commenced to fall and we went down down down, down Some remained in their seats grasping them while others rose It was quite dark now I stood up in the centre of the aisle holding on to the seat and thinking I would be less liable to be injured by the breaking glass and the splinters from the sides of the car As we went down everything was as silent as the grave but when we had struck a terrible shock arose from the wreck There was another crash at the same time, but not so loud as the first When we went down splinters glass, etc were whirling around in the car the berths were slipping down and there was general confusion Something fell on me but it was not very heavy It was dark and I could not see Some gentleman also fell over me but recovered himself a moment afterward I could not tell who it was as it was dark Some man said the car would be on fire in a moment, and we must hurry out Another said The water is coming in and we will be drowned' On my way out, a perfectly uninjured man grabbed me as I groped my way along on hands and knees and said O help me don't leave me, save me and ever so many such things as that but I could not see his face A woman wanted me to help her husband who was jammed in between the floor and a berth I tried to get him out but could not Some men called out and said they would come and help him Then I went to the door, walking over the furnace in my course There was no fire caught in our car

How to get out there I could not imagine The cars around me were either ablaze or covered with such masses of rubbish as to almost completely hem me in But I saw a man climbing up the rubbish and I followed him I got on the side of the car which had turned over and crawled along on it It seemed to be filled with people jammed together screaming and crying for help There was another man behind me and both tried to help me along but it was too slippery and I found I could do better crawling along by myself When we got to the end of the car these men—Mr Tyler of St Louis and Mr White of Chicago—helped me down When I got down I found myself in the water, snow and ice up to my knees Mr Tyler was bleeding about the head face and hands with a dreadful gash over his eye Mr White was unhurt, and he told me it was his eighth railroad accident Under the corner there was a man whose head lay lower than the rest of his body, and his limbs were all crushed by the car He asked us to help him and we did so as best we could until others came and carried him away suffering intensely I do not know who he was All this time the Ashtabula fire bells and the bell of the engine that had passed over were ringing furiously The blinding snow fell around us, illuminated by the light of the fire which had attacked the wreck The banks looked as high as those near Niagara at first The bridge had broken off short at each end leaving nothing but the abutments

"By this time there were plenty of men around to help us, but there was a perfect panic very few having any presence of mind at all Many who could have saved themselves as well as not had to be dragged out of the cars, or they would have been burned to death The women really showed the best courage, and yet there were few of them saved We were helped up the hill to the engine house pushing through the snow and ice, and clambering up the steep, rugged banks of the creek The injured were brought in, some of them horribly mangled, but very few of them unable to speak There were three ladies there—a Mrs Graham of New York, Mrs Bingham of Chicago, another lady and myself My escape was most remarkable, my only injury being no more than a scratch upon my wrist Mrs Graham was only slightly injured. Mrs. Bingham had her left leg and spine hurt, and the other lady, whose name I don't know, was also terribly injured.

"Before we had got up the hill the whole train was on fire, we heard the shrieks of the wounded and dying, and the whole scene was as bright as day. Men were working as hard as they could to help the suffering out of their fiery prison A physician came in about half an hour, and we took 'buses and went to the village. We were drenched through and through, and our clothes froze to us"

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

[Special to N Y Herald]

If every individual who went down with the ill-fated railroad train at Ashtabula and lived through the experience were to write up his or her sensations and adventures none would display that coolness and heroism described by Johnson R. Orburn and his wife, who were on their way to the Saginaw Valley Both are past forty, and Mr. Orburn is an Ohio farmer, who lately purchased a farm in Saginaw county. As the train pulled out from Ashtabula the farmer's wife began eating luncheon, and her husband was trying to read a newspaper by the light of the dim lamp

THE FALLING TRAIN.

He says he felt the first movement when the bridge gave away. He first imagined that one of the wheels under the car had become detached, as a corner of the car seemed to settle down a little. He dropped the paper and seized the back of the seat in front of him. Then the whole car seemed to lift up, and several women shrieked in alarm. There was no sensation of falling. On the contrary, both agree [illegible] was running up a steep hill. That would prove [illegible] first. From the time the bridge gave way till the [illegible] not more than ten seconds could have elapsed, and yet during that brief interval the husband threw one arm around his wife, she grasped the seat and asked what had happened and he told her to secure a brace for her feet and added —"We are off the track and running through the fields!" The rear end of their car struck first, smashing itself to kindling wood, the debris being thrown over the passengers in front The farmer found himself on the floor, held down by a mass of wreck on his left leg while his wife was thrown across him, with the wreck of two or three seats holding her against the side of the car. While thus held, and before either had spoken, one end of the car settled a little and the wife was released

A PLUCKY PAIR

"Mary are you living?" asked the husband, being the first words after the fall She replied that she was not even hurt beyond a bruise or two and by this time the shouting and confusion around them proved that the train was off the track though neither one suspected that it was more than a tumble into a wayside ditch It was wonderful how a woman could retain her presence of mind under such exciting circumstances but Mrs Orburn didn't even cry out after the shock Scores of other passengers were shrieking in pain and fright as the cold water flooded one end of the car and the flames began to eat away at the other

The woman cleared herself of the broken seats just as the fire started and she then ascertained that her husband was pinned fast to the floor by the wreck of matter on his leg which was partially bent around one of the iron standards of a seat She worked with all her might to set him free but the raging flames were now only a few feet away and the smoke and heat were becoming terrible

"Mary, take hold of my foot bend my leg toward you with all your might and see if you can't break it!" called the husband, who thought he could easily free himself if the leg was released from its cramped position The wife seized the foot meaning to obey but at that moment the car lurched over a little and her husband released himself When they left the car her dress was on fire showing that another minute would have enveloped both in the flames

Both were able to walk to the hotel as soon as released having escaped with only a few bruises The heroic wife and mother was not only ready to obey her husband's orders but she had a plan of her own

A WOMAN'S DEVOTION

When I saw the flames just upon us she said and while I was sure that my husband would be burned alive I made up my mind to put one of the cushions over him lie down on top of that and hope that while I was being burned up help would come to him for our children's sake'

"I was afraid she wouldn't be strong enough to break my leg" added the husband, "and then it would be all up with me I was going to have her get out and then, rather than to be burned alive I was going to —— Well I had this big knife in my right hand pocket and my right hand was free to get it and use it

THE STATE FINANCES.

The annual report of the State Treasurer just issued, makes a pamphlet of some seventy-odd pages, and presents an unusually comprehensive and detailed account of the financial affairs of the State. The exhibit is a most satisfactory one and Treasurer Hatch may justly feel gratified that in surrendering the responsible office he has held for the past three years he can hand the authority over to his successor, with the financial credit and interests of the State in such excellent condition. The report shows that the total revenue collected during the past year was $1,310,605 49, which with $377,093 84 on hand in the Treasury at the close of 1875, makes the grand total of $1,687,699 33 The total expenditures during 1876 have been $1,293,277 06 leaving a balance of $394,422 27 cash on hand Dec 31 1876

The receipts during the year have been ample to meet all demands without resorting to any portion of the temporary loan authorized by the Legislature The amount of revenue collected in 1876 from direct taxation was $899 405 51, from taxation of railroad corporations, $53 541 76, from tax on insurance companies, $12,972 85, and from tax on deposits in savings banks, $278 985 83 There is due from delinquent railroads for taxes assessed, $147,393 11 A test case has been brought in the Supreme Court against the Maine Central and the decision will probably be accepted by the other corporations

The public debt has been reduced $143,-681 during the year, and the total amount on Jan 1 1877, was $5,920 400, a reduction of nearly $2 000 000 since 1870 On Feb 1 1877, there will mature $46,500 of the public debt, which will be paid from current funds in the Treasury

The Treasurer believes that the State should adhere to the wise policy it has pursued for several years past, of meeting by taxation its obligations as they mature whenever it can be done without imposing too heavy burdens in any one year He has delayed issuing the new bonds to renew and extend the war loans of the State, believing that the portions falling due in 1880 and 1883 can be more advantageously disposed of by payment than by the issuing of new bonds He cites from his former report to show the feasibility of meeting the demands maturing on these dates

The amount paid in 1876 for interest on the public debt was $358 276 00 The sinking fund of 1865 having been abolished there remains only the fund established March 7, 1868 for extinguishment of the loan for equalization of the municipal war debt due October 1, 1889 For this fund there is raised annually the sum of $80,-479 95, which with the yearly accumulations is invested in bonds of the New England States or of the United States The fund amounted to $676,711 72 on the 31st of December, 1875, and at the close of 1876 the net amount was $791 293 81, invested according to law

The Treasurer gives a detailed account of the collection of State tax upon savings banks Under a decision of the Supreme Court holding that a suspended savings bank cannot be held for tax after a decree of sequestration has passed, the Winthrop and Solon savings banks have been relieved from the tax assessed in April, 1876, and the receiver of the Bucksport savings bank, which paid the tax a few days before the decision has applied for the refunding of the amount The tax was collected from the Lewiston bank, but the Waterville bank declines and the Treasurer thinks payment should be enforced The Treasurer refers to the features of the savings bank bill reported by the committee appointed under resolve of February, 1876 and disapproves of several of its features, which he thinks should be carefully considered by the Legislature

The amount raised for schools during the year was $395 576 40, of which $13,000 was expended for the support of the two Normal Schools and the rest apportioned according to law The Treasurer recommends that other educational appropriations should also be deducted from the general school fund, which he thinks would prove ample for the purpose

The Treasurer estimates the total receipts for 1877 at $1 630,374 49 and the expenditures at $1,320,309 16. The estimated surplus is $310,065.33 from which is to be deducted the aggregate of all extraordinary expenditures that may be authorized by the present Legislature. With the present revenue laws in force and on the presumption that only wise and economical legislation will be enacted at the present session, the Treasurer thinks that a tax of three and one fourth mills on the dollar of State valuation will, with receipts from other sources, be ample to meet all the requirements of the State Treasury for the ensuing year This will be a reduction of one-half mill from the tax assessed for 1876 and will in the aggregate reduce the State tax for 1877 about $112,000

The report presents carefully tabulated and detailed information of every department of the State's financial affairs, which are shown to be in a most healthy and prosperous condition In concluding his report Mr Hatch states that during his three years of incumbency he has sought to perform the duties with diligence and fidelity, and with a purpose solely devoted to the best interest of the State, and he expresses the hope that his efforts have been successful and his administration of the affairs of the department satisfactory to the people We are very sure that the retiring Treasurer will carry with him the emphatic public indorsement of the faithfulness and ability with which he has conducted his responsible office, and which have enabled him to present so satisfactory an account of the important interests committed to his charge

The Cincinnati Enquirer last week had a very bitter attack upon Ben Hill for his late conservative letter, in which he is spoken of as a slimy self seeker and trimming Georgian The Washington Union in an editorial written by Montgomery Blair, makes a similar attack upon Mr. Lamar for his supposed conciliatory views. Washington specials say that the Southern men are not taking very kindly to this attempt of Democratic papers to discipline them, and a great deal of ill-feeling is beginning to manifest itself among them

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Journal says that some of the Democrats who visited Tilden during the recess were not pleased with his plans, as they regarded them too cunning. His idea, according to the correspondent, is to call non-political public meetings to pass Tilden resolutions, taking care to have a majority of Democrats present to control them.

OUR WATER POWER.

IMPORTANCE OF MEASURES FOR UTILIZING IT.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier:

As citizens, we all have an interest in the Water Works just completed We can but approve of the action of our city government in its wise selection of the new Water Commission, and in its ordinance limiting the sum to be expended to the amount of the original appropriation.

Mr. Richardson's pledges have been fully redeemed—Our Water Works have cost us less than any similar works in New England and almost less than any in the country, and we may confidently hope that ere long the receipts will be nearly sufficient to pay the interest on the loan —Our rates of insurance are lessened and every property owner lies down at night with a sense of security from fire as new as it is agreeable. For municipal use and for sanitary purposes we hardly appreciate its value. It already runs small machinery and the building of the dam has made available a water power which we may confidently hope will—as other industries to which we have heretofore looked decline—prove Bangor's reliance in her time of need. It now remains for us to use our individual efforts to bring this power to the notice of manufacturers in order that there may be established such industries as shall assure to every working man in our city continuous labor No man who knows what a boon to our laborers the building of the Water Works has proved, will question for a moment the immeasurable advantage of establishing in our midst a demand for labor.—This is not a matter of municipal action, but for individual effort We have commercially speaking, a good thing on hand to dispose of Let us bring it to the notice of those who will utilize it.

Bangor, Jan 8, 1877.

JEFF DAVIS FOR A PENSIONER.

The debate in the House last week upon the bill granting pensions to soldiers and sailors of the Mexican, Florida and Black Hawk wars was enlivened by one incident which was not without significance Gen Rusk had proposed an amendment providing that the act should not apply to persons under political disabilities, and to give pertinence to his inquiry had asked if it was desired to place the name of Jefferson Davis on the Pension rolls It would seem that no person could have better authority for speaking for Jefferson Davis than one of his old Cabinet officers, accordingly Reagan of Texas arose, and at the end of a somewhat elaborate eulogy of Davis said that he did wish to have Jefferson Davis placed upon the pension rolls Reagan added that there is to day no man who more sincerely desires a perfect reconciliation, and who is more ready to shed his blood for the preservation of the Union than the same Jefferson Davis the late President of the Southern Confederacy It seemed at one time as if a record vote would be made upon this proposition, but the Democrats did not care to risk it and it was defeated and the section excluding persons under political disabilities was adopted

A graphic idea of the demoralized condition of society in South Carolina was furnished to Congressman Abbott at Charleston the other day. An old darkey who was trying to build a fire in his room, was so slow that the Judge asked him what the matter was The reply was prompt and comprehensive "Fact is Judge, that dar is no coal down stairs—It's no use talking, dis country is gwine to h—l as fast as it kin! I'se been up and down the alley, and stole all the wood I could find, and in de present demoralized condition of society, I can t do no better"

It is particularly interesting to know that Mr Harrison, the late private Secretary of Jeff Davis is employed to accompany witnesses to Washington to prevent them from telling too much about the Oregon matter And it is even more interesting to know that Harrison was requested to meet the New York bankers who drew the $8 000 check for Oregon, by Mr W T Pelton the nephew and confidential secretary of Governor Tilden. Pelton now appears as the principal in the $8,000 transaction, and the revelations extorted by the committee have already traced the corruption money very close to Tilden s own fingers And the end is not yet.

MARINE DISASTER.

Sinking of the Delia O Gates—Reprehensible Conduct of British Officers.

WASHINGTON, Jan 8 The Secretary of State has received a letter from the U S Consul at Liverpool giving the particulars of the loss of the schooner Delia O Gates of Damariscotta, Me, which was run into and sunk Nov 4th, in the English Channel by a British steamer The facts related under oath by the pilot and captain of the schooner show an exhibition of careless indifference to human life on the part of the officers of the British vessel, which should meet with universal reprobation The accident occurred about 7 o clock at night. The schooner had all her lights burning and adhered strictly to the regulations governing the right of way The steamer kept her course regardless of the schooner which hailed and signalled and when she struck the Gates which sank in ten minutes, offered no assistance, though the wives and captain and steward were on deck screaming for help The pilot and captain of the schooner called to the officers of the steamer to throw a rope in order to get the women off but no notice was taken of the appeal The pilot succeeded in climbing on the steamer where he seized a rope and threw it to the schooner whereby the women were hoisted on board the steamer The crew of the schooner then clambered up the side of the steamer as best they could and no lives were lost

Inauguration of Gov. Packard.

There was little excitement in the vicinity of the State House to-day attending the inauguration of Gov Packard A heavy force of police were on duty and admitted those who had passes. Not over 200 persons were in the streets

At one o'clock Gov, Packard entered the House of Representatives which was festooned with flags. Many ladies were in attendance and the band played "Hail to the Chief" After the Legislature was called to order Gov Kellogg introduced Mr Packard with a brief speech, alluding to the similarity of the circumstances with his own inauguration four years ago and wishing him God speed. Chief Justice Ludding administered the oath of office

Governor Packard read his inaugural The pleasure with which he received his credentials of the representatives of the people was clouded with the recollection that many co-laborers in the cause of Republican freedom had fallen in death, and that thousands had been constrained thro' fear to avoid the ballot-box or to vote against their will. Majorities had no occasion to use force, minorities alone resorted to it. He had received a majority of the votes freely, fairly and lawfully cast He had been declared elected Governor in the manner required by the Constitution and laws of the State. He should invoke all the powers conferred upon him to enforce obedience to the laws and to command enduring peace for Louisiana.

He enumerated a number of National measures necessary for the welfare of the State and in conclusion said: "It will be my object to keep in view my obligation to execute the laws and maintain the public peace; to convince my constituents that every act is intended to promote their welfare; to secure for the State a just proportion of national power; to develop those physical and moral resources upon which the prosperity and progress of every State must depend, and to appease by a just and liberal policy the discontent which has so long repressed the energies and darkened the future of the most favored land in the American Union"

Rebel Spite.

About two o'clock when Lieut.-Governor Antoine was concluding his remarks a crowd of about six hundred persons collected on Royal street in front of the State House, and after hooting and jeering at the police at the door, began pelting them with oyster-shells and other missiles and yelling "Let's put them out." The doors were closed and some of the parties then proceeded to deface Gov Kellogg's carriage which was standing near

Thomas Bayland, Nicholl's newly appointed Chief of Police, appeared and dispersed the crowd The city is quiet to night A large crowd assembled in front of Masonic Hall, where Nicholl's police are enrolled As an attack on the station houses was apprehended, they have all been barricaded and reinforced to prevent the Democrats taking them by force The Democrats are elated over the reports from Washington that the President will not recognize either Governor for the present

Nichols Ceremonies

By noon a large crowd had assembled at St Patrick's Hall, entirely filling the building and by one P M some five thousand people had assembled in the streets Lafayette Square and adjacent buildings —At 1 P M Gen Nicholls left City Hotel for the Hall, where he was received with tremendous cheers by the assembled thousands Gen Nicholls appeared on the balcony at 1 10 where after prayer by Rev Dr, Palmer, the oath of office was administered to Nicholls and Wiltz by Judge Tissol Gov Nicholls then made his inaugural address

THE PACIFIC COAST.

The Drouth in California and Oregon—Crop Prospects.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 8 The drouth continues unbroken, December having passed without a drop of rain Yesterday despatches from various points seemed to indicate a change of weather but it has again cleared up The crop reports from all quarters indicate that in the extreme South the drought has already had a disastrous effect on grain and feed In some parts of San Joaquin valley and the lower portion of Sacramento valley, the crops are suffering Along the coast counties, reports are generally favorable and no trouble is apprehended if rain should be delayed until next month In the northern portion of the State, there is much anxiety but no serious damage has yet resulted The crops in Oregon are coming forward excellently and on the whole present indications are that with rain later in the winter, sufficient grain will be raised for home consumption and a small surplus If rain comes within a couple of weeks a fair crop may be harvested Under favorable conditions during the rest of the season a large yield can hardly be expected unless the rains should be immediate and copious

"THE POOR YE HAVE ALWAYS WITH YOU

Mr Editor —These words fall upon our hearts to day with the same force and truth as that with which they were uttered centuries ago by "one who spake as never man spake" At this season they have a peculiar significance in view of the more than usually inclement weather and the hard times consequent upon the general depression of business The laboring classes were barely able to secure sufficient employment to support them during the warm weather, and now winter is upon them with no work and they have nothing laid by with which to keep the wolf from the door

I wish to call the attention of your readers to the notice of entertainments to be given the present week in aid of this unfortunate class by the Unitarian Benevolent Society" The Lecture by Rev A M Knapp and 'Coffee Party by the ladies of the society These are given expressly for the poor, and it may well be called a Home Mission'—a mission to the poor of Bangor, without regard to class or sect

Our citizens are not usually slow to move in a good cause, but it is hard for those "clothed in purple and fine linen and faring sumptuously every day to understand the need which they do not see and this year there is a poverty which shrinks from observation and its victims suffer long without speaking

Could the children of luxury go with our committee to the homes where once was comparative comfort and see the discouraged care worn men—the weary heart sick mother whose children hover around the scanty fire—hungry and half clothed —with in too many cases no provision for the coming day—could they go with us to the homes where we would show them feeble young girls, racked with the fearful cough which tells its own story—victims for whom the spring flowers will never bloom—for whose sufferings there are no alleviating circumstances—not even the necessaries of life could all this be seen and understood as some of us see it how quick and generous would be the response

We invite one and all to patronize our efforts this week, in what all must allow to be a good cause

Buy our tickets, even if you cannot go to our entertainments and remember that while you are blessing others you also are receiving a blessing, for "God loveth a cheerful giver"

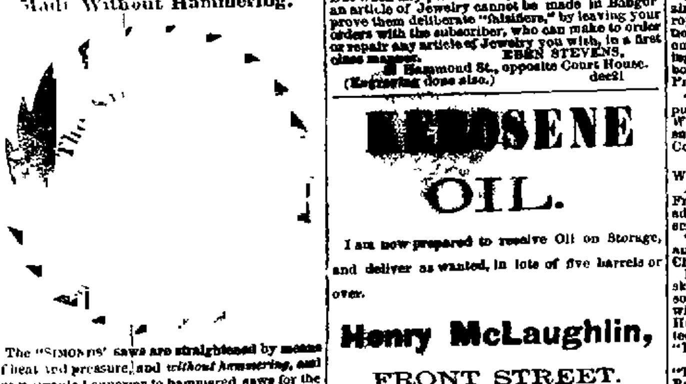
CIRCULAR SAWS!

Made Without Hammering.



The "SIMONDS" saws are straightened by means of heat and pressure, and without hammering, and are warranted superior to hammered saws for the following reasons

The success of the process requiring a uniform heat, insures a perfectly uniform temper, and they file and set in a more satisfactory manner

Being free from uneven strain or buckle, they stand up [illegible] better

As the steel is left in a natural condition by this process, the saws retain their original shape, or po[illegible] on, as the[illegible] are [illegible] used in size, thus avoiding the necessity and expense of re-hammering

Being made of a higher quality of steel than it is practical to use by the old method they hold an edge to get

Large circular mill saws can be run at any reasonable speed with equally good results—saws [illegible] inches in diameter having been tested from 400 to 1200 turns a minute with perfect satisfaction,—while hammered saws must be hammered differently for different speeds

The "SIMONDS" saws received at the Centennial, a Medal, Diploma, and the following report of the Board of Judges

"Circular Saws of beautiful finish and form, and originality in the method of manufacture"

A trial of the "SIMONDS" SAWS will satisfy any mill man that he cannot afford to use hammered saws

Sure to Regulate the Bowels.

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to your selves, and

Relief and Health to your Infants.

We have put up and sold this article for years, and CAN SAY IN CONFIDENCE AND TRUTH of it what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—NEVER HAS IT FAILED IN A SINGLE INSTANCE TO EFFECT A CURE, when timely used Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues We speak in this matter "WHAT WE DO KNOW," after years of experience, AND PLEDGE OUR REPUTATION FOR THE FULFILLMENT OF WHAT WE HERE DECLARE. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered

This valuable preparation has been used with NEVER FAILING SUCCESS in

Thousands of Cases.

It not only relieves the child from pain, but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve Griping in the Bowels and Wind Colic.

We believe it the BEST AND SUREST REMEDY IN THE WORLD, in all cases of DYSENTERY AND DIARRHŒA IN CHILDREN, whether it arises from teething or from any other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints—DO NOT LET YOUR PREJUDICES, NOR THE PREJUDICES OF OTHERS, stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be SURE—yes, ABSOLUTELY SURE—to follow the use of this medicine, if timely used Full directions for using will accompany each bottle
